Women represent 24 percent of the 1.1 million Americans living with HIV today and more than 50 percent of HIV-positive people worldwide.

This amfAR Capitol Hill Conference will:

- Highlight the successes and gaps in the national and global HIV response targeting women and girls
- Discuss current advances and innovations in HIV research, programming and policies
- Provide a roadmap for fast-tracking progress with an action agenda that ensures that women and girls are a key focus of efforts to end AIDS in the U.S. and globally

Lunch will be provided
